

Workshop Invitation Community and Neighborhood Rebuilding

American Planning Association's 2006 National Planning Conference

April 22, 2006

1:00 p.m.–4:00 p.m.

Henry B. Gonzalez Convention Center

Room 216

San Antonio

Registration required: no fee

In this workshop, offered complimentary to San Antonio residents, you will learn how to create and sustain social capital. One error commonly made by everyone engaged in civic life is that once relationships are in place, they remain that way. Mack McCarter will teach you to develop relationships that build neighborhoods and communities. He will provide case studies from a program in Shreveport, Louisiana that has received national awards and recognition from APA. McCarter is responsible for reviving the settlement house movement in poor neighborhoods of Shreveport. His seven Friendship Houses are a staging ground for tutoring, music lessons, preventive medical care, and neighborly support.

Anyone interested in attending the full, four-day conference is welcome as a paid registrant. For more conference information, visit www.planning.org/2006conference.
